The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 27TH, 1913.

With the arrival of the Civil Administrator in Canton it will be hoped that there is an early prospect of more settled conditions in Kwangtung. Mr. Li Hoi-wai, it seems, does not intend to take over from General Lung's duties of that office immediately, but desires to spend a few days in studying the affairs of the Province. We can only hope, if he is a capable administrator, that his preliminary study of the problem of administration will not make him reluctant to take up the appointment, as was the case with Mr. CHAN CHUI SHEUNG, to whom the position was previously offered. We are hearing too much of martial law in Canton just now to inspire any great amount of confidence in the general situation. We share the view of our Shanghai contemporary when it says: "Now that the rebel armies are defeated and dispersed, and the more important leaders driven into retirement, the Government's first duty is to the masses of the people. Control of the troops, and useful employment for them in the suppression of brigands and pirates is the first need of the moment. Instead, we find the first aim of certain commanders to be the pursuit of all-god plotters, often very small fry, who, even if more or less guilty, might at this stage be allowed to slip through the meshes of the net. This course is in marked contrast to the lenient attitude frequently adopted in recent months towards rebel soldiers taken with arms in their hands." This applies with special force to the province of Kwangtung. General Lung's stern action in Canton, as our contemporary says, may possibly be justified by the circumstances, but we are unable to discover from the published reports what circumstances really exist to warrant the arrests which are continually being made in the city under martial law. One might imagine Canton to be still honeycombed with conspiracies against the Government, but the truth seems to be that the Governor-General is simply marking down past offenders. There has been absolutely nothing in the published accounts to show that CHAN KING-WAH, the late Chief of Police, was concerned in any plot to undermine the authority of the present Government in Peking or the Provincial Government at Canton, which, for weeks prior to his death, he had been doing his utmost to uphold. For all the public know, CHAN KING-WAH was shot because he had been disloyal to the Central Government when the traitorous Tuhuh CHAN KWING-MING declared his Government's independence of Peking, and because his methods of maintaining public order then and since had incurred for him the enmity of a large body of the public. The present policy of General Lung, dictated from Peking, seems to be a policy of revenge rather than a policy directed to the suppression of present disorders. It may very plausibly be argued that a man who has been a rebel in the past is a potential rebel of the future, and this would appear to be the line of thought governing the Tuhuh's measures against them; but we fear it is not by measures based upon ideas of this kind that peace and progress are to be secured in China. If the Republican Constitution is to be a reality, there must be a serious and honest endeavour on the part of the responsible officers of the State to give effect to its decrees. On the other hand, the hot-blooded young Radicals who imagine Utopia can be gained in a day must put some restraint upon their enthusiasm and remember that it is no more possible for a new State to be erected suddenly on the basis of a new Constitution, than it is for a mansion to be built as soon as the plans are prepared. Just as the mansion has to be built brick by brick, so has the State to be erected into the ideal by a constant series of reforms, sedulously and patiently undertaken. This lesson needs teaching in Kwangtung more, perhaps, than in any other Province of China, and we can only hope that between them: General Lung as Military Governor, and Mr. Li Hoi-wai as Civil Administrator will be able to repair the mischief which has been done by the recent abortive revolutionary efforts. General Lung as Military Governor will have ample scope for his energy and his powers of organization if he applies himself diligently to suppress the piracy and brigandage now rampant over so large a part of the Province, while a more efficient control over the nucleus of the forces which it would be sufficient to retain in Canton would certainly be welcomed by the merchant and shopkeeping classes on whom they are now preying.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

ULSTER'S OPPOSITION TO HOME RULE.

SIR EDWARD CARSON ON THE VERGE OF COMPLETE COLLAPSE.

LONDON, September 26th.

The Ulster Committee have met to arrange duties. Sir Edward Carson was absent, and is on the verge of a complete collapse. On Wednesday evening the doctor ordered him to bed for 48 hours.

The subscriptions to the Ulster Indemnity Fund are only operative when the total reaches £1,000,000, and nearly £250,000 has already been promised. Lord Londonderry is giving £10,000, and Sir Samuel McCaughey, an Australian millionaire, cabled the Treasurer of the Fund offering any sum necessary.

RIDICULING THE CARSON GOVERNMENT.

Mr. J. M. Robertson, Parliamentary

Under-Secretary to the Board of Trade, speaking at Newcastle, said:—The most serious difficulty of Sir Edward Carson's Government will be with the Post Office, which will refuse communications, and Belfast will thus be cut off from the world. We have only got to keep cool, and the difficulty will solve itself.

The Government has kept cool hitherto, and will know how to meet the situation when it is developed. Sir Edward Carson will not be prosecuted because the Government does not want to turn "King" Carson into "Saint" Carson, and it would be unwise to prosecute him for bunkum. Sir Edward Carson's Government will not work for a week. There is no election behind it, and if the Volunteers begin shooting they will find an Army better drilled, with guns not made of wood. I do not believe that there will be any trouble of this sort, but who is going to pay revenue to Sir Edward Carson's officials?

THE SUGGESTED CONFERENCE.

The Standard says that informal par- parlors have been proceeding between the party leaders on the subject of a Home Rule Conference. The chief difficulty experienced up to the present is the demand for representation by the Irish Unionists and Nationalists at the Conference.

THE ILLNESS OF DOM MANUEL'S CONSORT.

Ex-King Manuel's journey to England has been postponed and the bride will start shortly with her husband for Sigmaringen. The bride is now convalescent.

The news of her sudden illness and the secrecy observed concerning the details caused a sensation in the German Press. The papers state that the Royal patient was suffering from internal inflammation.

MARCONI COMPANY'S IMPORTANT ACQUISITION.

V.R.C. ANNUAL AQUATIC SPORTS.

SECOND DAY.

There was another fair attendance at the Victoria Recreation Club yesterday afternoon to witness the second day's programme of the annual aquatic meeting. There were good entries for the various events brought off, and most of them were productive of interesting sport. The main event on the programme was the 220 yards championship, which Finch won comfortably. Other interesting events were the four lengths' handicap, and the final in the two lengths, both of which proved interesting races. As on the previous day, the committee carried out their duties admirably, and spectators had no cause of complaint either with the sports or the management. Results of events follow:—

HURDLE RACE, two lengths' handicap: 1, J. M. R. Souza, 55secs.; 2, C. J. Cooke, 57secs.; 3, J. C. Finch, 58secs. Edwards led the way right over the first length and until the third hurdle in the second and final lengths. Here he was overtaken by Pereira and Wittchell, but the former's speed was unassailable, and notwithstanding the efforts of Wittchell, Pereira had the winning touch to his credit.

LONG PLUNGE: 1, M. A. R. Souza, 55secs.; 2, C. J. Cooke, 57secs.; 3, J. C. Finch, 58secs. There were three other competitors, but the only one who challenged Souza was Wittchell, and he wanted a few more inches to have anything to say in the final.

FOUR LENGTHS' HANDICAP: 1, R. A. Carvalho, receives 7secs.; Time—1min. 10 2/5secs.; 2, A. V. Barros, receives 5secs.; Time—1min. 14 4/5secs. There were six starters in this event, but it soon became apparent that the race rested between the first and second, and Carvalho deserved his win.

220 YARDS CHAMPIONSHIP: 1, J. C. Finch, 2, C. J. Cooke. Finch promptly settled his right as the claimant of this race. The other starters were C. J. Cooke and A. A. Claxton. The latter was not a dangerous competitor (although there is little doubt he would do better if he swam with a little more heart) but Cooke was a "go" from the start and compelled Finch to keep the pace. It was only natural that the young man should win, as he did, and comfortably, and while congratulating the winner we cannot refrain from congratulating and complimenting the "old sport" who made the race the interesting event it was. Cooke was a swimmer before the "crawl" stroke was known. Rather late in the day he has adopted it, naturally with not such successful results as younger men, but his late performances have proved that he is able to compete with the best in the Colony, and still see the champions home.

TWO LENGTHS' HANDICAP: 1, W. J. Carroll, receives 4secs.; 30 3/5secs.; 2, E. L. Braga, receives 6secs.; 34secs. Carroll led from the start and Bradbury made good pace for the first length, but fell to the rear in the second. The leader did not slacken his pace until the winning post was reached, but Bradbury gave way to the faster turn of speed of Braga.

BOYS' RACE: 1, D. Purvis, 36secs.; 2, J. Rasmussen, 37 2/5secs.

WATER POLO: Again the programme concluded with a polo match between teams distinguished by White and Blue caps. An exciting game resulted in a draw, the score being two goals apiece.

HONGKONG SHARE MARKET.

Messrs. Verbon &amp; Smyth in their weekly share report dated 26th September state:—

DOCKS, WHARVES AND GODOWNS.—Hongkong and Whampoa Docks have had sales at $75 1/2 and $7 1/2, and close with buyers offering $78. Hongkong and Whampoa Wharves have been a quiet market, and close with a nominal quotation of $90. New Amoy Docks are unchanged with sellers at $8 1/2, and Shanghai Docks and Hongkong Wharves are quoted nominally at Tls. 53 and Tls. 100 respectively.

LANDS, HOTELS AND BUILDINGS.—Hongkong Lands are on offer at $113, and Kowloon Lands close with a nominal quotation of $46. Humphreys Estates have improved, and close with buyers at $60 1/2. A DISPUTE AS TO THE PAYER.
A case was mentioned in which Cheng Jack is suing Maud Thomson to recover the sum of $27.

Mr. Gardner said he appeared on behalf of Mr. Faithfull, who represented the defendant. He understood that the parties had changed their tribunal and taken the case to the Police Court.

Mr. Goldring, for the plaintiff, said he was instructed that Police Court proceedings had been instituted. There appeared to be a dispute between Mr. T. R. Nicol and Miss Maud Thomson as to who should pay this man's wages, and whose lawful commands he should obey. Mr. Goldring asked for an adjournment until after the hearing of the Police Court case.

Mr. Gardner—My instructions are to ask for an adjournment for a fortnight. Mr. Goldring—I don't mind.

The case was accordingly adjourned for a fortnight.

BUSINESS IN CHINA.

The following note appears in the British Trade Review of September 1st:—
The latest revolution in China has embroiled many British merchants, who were well sold forward to coast houses, and also to interior markets. With the cable hints that large shipments will for the present be unwise, owing to the disturbed state of the country, the export of cotton fabrics and of general goods it has to some extent been checked; but it is hoped that, when the revolutionists have had their fling and there is prospect of a more settled state of affairs, trade will be resumed. The business opinion is that the opening up of the empire cannot be delayed, and railway contractors, engineers, and other industrial firms, as well as shippers of cotton goods, are looking forward to the more modern trade that must spring from the more modern needs of the vast population. In fact, now the markets promise to be more settled, and there is less commercial disturbance in the Yangtze and in the Treaty ports, several well-known houses in the North of England are making arrangements to send out special travellers. With the changing industrial and commercial conditions in the Far East, manufacturers are convinced that there will be far greater possibilities of trade. Indeed, one or two British trade representatives of enterprising firms have received the liberal instruction: "Oh, well, work through India, China, and Japan."

THE CHINA ASSOCIATION.

RECENT ACTIVITIES OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Meetings of the General Committee of the China Association were held on July 15th and August 12th. The more important subjects dealt with and the resolutions taken are set out below:—

OPIUM.

Letters from Messrs. E. D. Sassoon & Co., enclosing copies of their correspondence with the Foreign Office, were read and considered.

The correspondence showed that further serious difficulties are being placed in the way of the disposal of existing stocks, and that, as regards Shanghai, deliveries were being effected only in small parcels by Chinese dealers smuggling through the native city. Up to the end of June limited shipments were possible from Hongkong to Southern ports, but the return to the Colony of a shipment of twenty-five chests recently made to Paochow indicates that these outlets may soon be closed. The prospect of passing into circulation the large stocks still held in Shanghai and Hongkong is thus becoming very remote, and a serious crisis is threatened. The Committee fully appreciate the gravity of the situation, but considered that in view of the chaotic condition of affairs in China they could not usefully add anything to the case already presented to the Foreign Office of February 15th, 1913, Annual Report, 1912-13, p. 43.

TENDERS FOR WORK AT BRITISH LEGATION.

Letters from several British firms in China were laid before the Committee which presented the following facts:—
Tenders for certain electrical and mechanical work to be done at the British Legation, Peking, were invited in April, 1911, from British firms, by H.M. Office of Works at Shanghai. On account of the political disturbances in China tenders were notified, in the following December, that the Board would not proceed with the work. After a lapse of eighteen months, and with no further prelude, announcement was made that a tender by Messrs. Siemens & Co. had been accepted. This procedure was naturally resented by the other firms, who were given no opportunity of revising their estimates, which, owing to higher exchange, might have been materially reduced.

A letter was therefore addressed to the Foreign Office asking that the Board of Works be moved to explain.
The reply was anything but satisfactory. In substance it was to the effect that the Board's original intention was to invite fresh tenders; but, as it became necessary to proceed with the work at short notice, to do so would have caused delay. The Board therefore called upon the two lowest tenders to submit revised tenders, and Messrs. Siemens & Co., having satisfied the Board's officers that they might be regarded as a British firm, were successful.

In so far as Messrs. Siemens & Co. own large works in London and Stafford, and the undertakings were given that the work itself should be carried out in England, their right to tender has not been challenged. But the fact remains that the firm is predominantly German, and is regarded as exclusively so in China; a glance at the Directory will show that of their twenty-one employees in China not one is English.

The unfortunate consequence of their action was no doubt unforeseen by the Board of Works; but it cannot be gainsaid that their irregular procedure has added to the disadvantage of British manufacturers.

Acting upon a suggestion made by the Tientsin branch, copies of the correspondence were sent to the British Engineers' Association. That Association has had the question under review for some time past, and in view of certain additional information supplied by the China Association, its Council decided to ask the Board of Works for permission to publish authoritatively in the Press of China the names of the contractors for the manufacture of the plant, as a refutation of German statements.

SERVICE ON SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.
A letter from the Shanghai Branch was read again bringing before the Committee the importance of securing for service on the Municipal Council the representatives of all British firms of standing, and pointing out that while the vast majority of firms took their share in this honourable service there were still one or two prominent institutions who had hitherto refused permission to their employees to offer themselves for election. It was decided to address letters to the firms indicated, and the Committee believe their representations will not be without effect. It has been urged that the larger the stake a firm has in the trade of China the more incumbent it is that its representative should take his share in the local government under which Shanghai has so long prospered.

COMPANIES REGISTERED IN SHANGHAI.

In the course of a judgment delivered at Shanghai in a case concerning share transactions, Mr. F. S. A. Bourne, Assistant Judge, said:—"We want a clear, hard law and strong administration both in regard to registration of companies and to forward share contracts. Until our legislature has provided this, there can be no return to the conditions that reigned here before 1900."

The Shanghai branch, in drawing attention to this important pronouncement, asked that the Foreign Office might be asked to expedite a settlement on this question, the main principles of which, it is understood, have been agreed to between the Foreign and Colonial Offices. The Foreign Office in replying to the Committee's representations said that "the whole question of the control of the whole companies in China, and the further question of the provision of facilities at Shanghai for the incorporation of companies in the British Empire, were engaging the most serious attention of Sir Edward Grey, but that he was not in a position to make any definite pronouncement on the subject."

While the Committee could appreciate the demands upon the time of Sir Edward Grey, disappointment was expressed that no information was forthcoming as to the progress made in disposing of a question which arose so long ago as October, 1910.

HONGKONG UNIVERSITY.

Professor C. A. Middleton-Smith, Dean of the Faculty of Engineering of Hongkong University, addressed a special appeal to the Committee to assist him in obtaining subscriptions to provide an adequate teaching staff for the engineering faculty, for which British manufacturers have promised equipment to the value of $3,000. The Committee decided to circulate a further appeal, with a statement of the grounds on which it may appear to commend itself.

THE REBELLION.

Several telegrams which had been received from Shanghai and one from Hongkong were read.

The first of these alluded to the impending rebellion in China, and suggested the return of the British fleet—then cruising in Northern waters—to patrol the Yangtze, in view of the spread of trouble in that direction. It also stated that foreign and native merchants in Shanghai were strongly in favour of all foreign Governments giving concerted support to Yuan Shih-kai in the crisis. Further, the opinion was expressed that if it became known in Peking that the British Government would uphold the President, a settlement of the difficulty might soon be reached, especially as the backing of the rebels then appeared to be wavering.

The message from Hongkong strenuously supported the advocacy of Shanghai, pointed out the detrimental effect the rebellion was having upon trade, and closed with the significant statement that it had no support from Chinese merchants there or in Canton.

SHANGHAI SETTLEMENT EXTENSION.

A telegram from the Shanghai branch was read. It stated there was every indication that if the question of extending the boundaries of the Settlement were then raised, it should have a satisfactory issue. Stress was laid on the fact that the Chinese Government was then occupied by an internal national conflict; that its civil administration was in a chaotic condition, and that the native residents, including the chairman of the so-called Council, favoured the establishment of foreign supervision.

The Committee were of opinion that no more favourable moment was likely to occur for accomplishing the extension of the Settlement, and so putting an end to the perennial Chapei difficulty and danger. It was, therefore, decided that a letter strongly supporting the Shanghai telegram should be written to the Foreign Office.

In view of previous correspondence it was thought unnecessary to enter into lengthy particulars, but the following, emphasizing a new danger and a further argument for the inclusion of Chapei within Settlement limits, may be quoted:—"To the inconvenience of having at its doors a district ill-administered, a refuge for bad characters, and a source of chronic friction has now been superadded the fact that the region became, for a time, and may become again, a storm-centre occupied by insurgent troops, and a grave menace to the safety of residents in the immediate adjoining Foreign Settlement. The case for its inclusion within the area of the Settlement and providing a practicable boundary capable of defence in case of need appears to the Association to have been so greatly strengthened by these incidents that they have no hesitation in representing afresh to His Majesty's Government the desirability of taking steps to accomplish the purpose."

(A reply has since been received to the effect that His Majesty's Government is prepared to support any scheme which may be initiated by the Consular body at Shanghai and receives the approval of the Diplomatic Corps at Peking.)

TRADE MARKS IN CHINA.

A letter was read from the Foreign Office which stated that the Japanese Government was unable to agree to a provision for the protection of unregistered marks in China, and that, in consequence, Sir E. Grey presumed the Japanese would consider it advisable to drop negotiations altogether.

RAILWAY IN SOUTH CHINA.

A letter from the Hongkong Branch was read in which stress was laid upon the importance of securing to Hongkong a through connection with the great trunk line between Hankow and Canton, and urging, with that end in view, the desirability of linking that line with the railway now running between Kowloon and Canton.

The Committee fully appreciated the importance of the point, but considered that the question was one that had better be raised locally. It was understood that the authorities of the Chinese section of the Canton-Kowloon Railway were equally anxious to secure a connection, and that only lack of funds prevented the work from being undertaken. It was decided to defer taking action pending further advice from Hongkong.

ANNUAL DINNER.

It was decided that the annual dinner should take place at the Whitehall Rooms, Hotel Metropole, on Wednesday, October 29th, 1913, at 7 p.m.

The acoustic properties of buildings are still very much a secret to be discovered by the architectural profession. The other day Lord Deedes brought an action against some architects and builders in the London Courts for faulty construction and won his case. Mr. Justice Bailhache heard the plaintiff, in delivering judgment said:—"The worst thing about the house is the transference of sound from one part to another. I would like to grant Lord Deedes something to compensate for that, but I am persuaded that the question of sound is ill-understood by architects and that one must not expect more of a man than the average of his profession, or what I called yesterday the standard mind."

RUBBER AS AN INVESTMENT.

PLANTATION PROBLEMS.

[BY A CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES."]

The bulk of the investing classes are somewhat chary of putting their money into what they conceive to be the highly speculative rubber industry. They have on the surface excellent reasons for being sceptical about the safety of their capital. The history of the past three years of Rubber share values has demonstrated how easy it is to lose a half or even two-thirds of the capital and still to have a haunting fear that perhaps more of it will vanish. Almost every one knows of a friend or a friend's friend who bought shares, say, at £20 apiece, and now finds he cannot sell them at £7, or much-valued 2s. shares at 6s., and sees the market price quoted at round about 1s. He also hears and reads of shareholders demanding their money back from company promoters, of rubber companies being wound up with the total loss of the capital subscribed, or of companies whose £1 scrip is valued at the price of a tip to a City waiter. It is patent also to the world at large that the production of plantation rubber is increasing at the rate of 20,000 or 30,000 tons a year, and that the price of the raw material has been rapidly on the downward grade. The pessimist foresees the time approaching when the best plantation companies will be fighting amongst themselves for profit of a few pence a pound, and the shareholder will be thankful to get his 5 per cent. on the par value of his shares. Such a time, no doubt, is coming. The point is, when?

The violent ups and downs in the share market—more particularly the ups—have been due to a short-sighted view of the industry. The value of a share is not to be estimated by the price of rubber on any one given day. When rubber was 12s. a lb. (for a day) the man in the street struggled hard to buy a share at 25 times its original value on the assumption that the company would continue to pay 40 per cent. dividends at the rate of 400 per cent. or more! The holder of such shares now sadly realizes the force of the truism that shares should not be bought on temporary views of the moment, and lest of all during the excitement of a "boom" on the Stock Exchange.

OPTIMISM OF INVESTORS.

The great majority of people who have been interested in rubber from the outset are interested still. They have not parted with their shares even during "boom" times, except perhaps to make a favourable exchange from a highly capitalized dividend payer into a promising young producer. There are planters in the East and their friends, financiers, and retired Eastern officials, who have locked away large sums in rubber, sometimes even to the greater part of their savings, and they are not by any means anxious to sell their shares and get out of a so-called speculative industry. They retain a firm conviction that in no other industry can so large a yield be obtained on their money and so great a measure of security for their capital. Such men must have good reasons for the faith that is in them; and it may be useful to examine what some of these are.

First, these optimists in rubber are interested in plantations in the Middle East; that is to say, in the Federated Malay States, Straits Settlements, Ceylon, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, and Southern India. The climate and labour conditions render this part of the globe quite certain that the world's future supplies of rubber will be drawn almost exclusively from the Middle East. The forests of wild rubber, whether it be from the forests of the Amazon or from the jungles of Africa, will absolutely cease with the exception that a certain amount of fine hard Para will continue to be collected for some time at a high price to fulfil special requirements.

The second outstanding fact is that the use of rubber is growing rapidly, and that the cheaper it becomes the greater will be the consumption. The extension of mechanical traction alone will require in the near future thousands of tons of rubber where hundreds are now consumed. It is estimated that 112,000 tons of rubber were bought by manufacturers in 1912. It need astonish no one if 500,000 tons are required in 1920. It is the hope and the reasonable inference of the rubber optimist that even with a still lower price for the raw material he will see his capital returned in dividends together with a handsome rate of interest long before he exceeds the demand. The rubber begins to exceed the demand. The production of rubber in 1913 is estimated at about 125,000 tons and the production of plantation rubber about 50,000 tons. It is thus obvious that the remaining 75,000 tons of wild rubber and then to catch up the increased and increasing demand before the ordinary laws of supply and demand come into operation. At what length of time that point will be reached presents the most interesting problem in the rubber industry, and it is this uncertainty which is at once the fascinating and speculative part of the business.

HOPES OF HIGHER PRICES.

With such a remarkable drop in the price as has taken place this year, the wild product may, it is thought by some, actually be a short supply, which will again put the plantation article at a high premium for two or three years, or at any rate for a sufficient period to strengthen the position of the investor immensely.

The returns that an intending investor in Rubber shares may expect on his holdings depends, of course, on his choice of share, as well as on the law of supply and demand which will ultimately come into force. For his purposes the plantation companies in the Middle East may be roughly divided into two classes—the old dividend payers and the young producers. The old dividend payers have the bulk of their land in full bearing. They have survived all the troubles of pioneers; their costs of production are low, and they pay high dividends, in many cases over 100 per cent. The price of the shares is equally high, and the dividends depend entirely on the rise and fall in the price of rubber.

The young producers are companies which are just coming into bearing. The cost of production is high, and they are often short of capital. The best of them manage to pay dividends from a production of about a third or less of their planted area. Their shares stand at a moderate figure, and their increasing production should be usually sufficient to maintain and perhaps increase the rate of dividend. The average first-class young producer will pay 10 to 15 per cent. when in full bearing, reckoning profits at 3d. a pound—that is to say, when rubber is selling at 2s. a pound or perhaps less. To put it in other words, a good young producer is capitalized at from £50 to £75 an acre when in full bearing.

The market price varies with the stage of development at which the company has arrived, but generally speaking it is lower than it has been at any time since the spring of 1911. The shares of a fair number of companies can be bought at a price which represents less than £100 per acre in full bearing. A company capitalized at £100 an acre should give a yield of 7½ per cent. with 6d. a pound profit, but it is not expected that the profit will fall to this figure for a year or two yet, and until the fall does take place the dividends should be proportionately larger.

YOUNG AND OLD PRODUCERS.

It should be noted that the capital per acre in full bearing is a very different thing from capital per planted acre. In the second case all rubber that is less than five years old is unproductive, and the amount required to bring it into bearing must either be added to the capital, or subtracted from the dividends. If the investor is unable to make the calculation himself, he should get the assistance of one who knows. It may be taken as an axiom of safety for the cautious investor that he should not purchase a share which is capitalized at more than £100 an acre in full bearing.

There are also second-class young producers short of capital and using their entire revenue for maintenance purposes whose shares stand at a discount, and sometimes much below their intrinsic value. The ultimate returns on the market price will be much more than 10 or 15 per cent. at 6d. a lb. profit, but the holder has to remain without dividends for two or three years, and hold a share which it is easy to buy but difficult to sell except at a loss. For the plucky investor these are without doubt the best shares to buy, but trustworthy expert opinion is required on a purchase, as there are shares of many young producers which are decidedly expensive at a discount. As regards the old dividend payers, it may be shortly prophesied that none of them will pay 7½ per cent. on the present price of the shares when rubber is selling at 6d. a lb. profit. Should the price of rubber recover and remain at about 4s. a lb. for two or three years there is no old dividend payer would be an excellent investment, but with rubber between 2s. and 3s. per lb. the young producer is by far the safer venture.

The young producers have also this advantage, that their careers for the next ten years will benefit by the costly experience of the older companies. The history of plantation companies does not date back longer than ten or twelve years. Not one acre of rubber has been continuously tapped for more than ten years, and no one can foretell what may happen when the trees have been tapped day after day for 30 years. The latex may cease flowing; the trees may die or require to be rested for long periods. Should this happen it will all be to the profit of the young producer, as the statistics of the production of rubber and the consequent price will have to be radically revised. The investor, therefore, who has the necessary knowledge or force, who can rely on expert opinion, has the opportunity now of acquiring shares at a price on which there is every probability of receiving at least 10 per cent. over a period of years and a sporting chance that his dividends may be 20 per cent. or more during two or three years of that period.

A NEW MACHINE GUN.

TRIALS IN PEKING.

Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth's new machine gun was given an official trial on Saturday, the 20th inst., at the International Rifle Range, Peking, officers from the War Ministry and Ministry of the Navy and the British, American and Italian Legations being present.

Mr. Waters, Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth's representative, carried out the firing, which was most successful in every way; 297 rounds were automatically fired at a target measuring six feet by six, at a range of 500 yards; 231 hits were plainly discernible, mostly in the head and shoulders of the figure of a man painted on the target.

The gun and tripod were then placed in their lowest position, and the firer, lying prone on the ground as for skirmishing purposes, at first fired at the target and then, sweeping the fire over a large area, distributing a stream of well-placed bullets, demonstrated the remarkable ease with which the gun could be manipulated for skirmishing. Finally, 600 rounds were fired continuously in less than a minute. The gun worked splendidly and evoked the highest commendation.—Reuter.

THE PIRACY OF THE "LICORNE."

Seven persons have been sent to hospital suffering from knife and bullet wounds sustained in the piratical attack on the s.s. "Licorne" in Chinese waters. None were seriously hurt.

One of the passengers on the vessel states that he had amongst the cargo a case containing 50 grey felt hats, four bottles of Florida water, 25 dozen handkerchiefs, 18 pieces of silk, 28 blankets, and 10 bed covers, the total value of the articles being about $220. The case was stolen.

NOTES AND NEWS.

An enterprising candidate at the recent election for the French Departmental Councils made use of the cinematograph in his election campaign. The inhabitants of districts which he was unable to canvass in person were invited to see a number of films of general interest, as well as a series showing the would-be "councillor general" in various phases.

The introduction of "The Church's One Foundation" into the new melodrama at the Lyceum recalls to mind, says a London paper, a rather wicked story of Archbishop Temple. He is said to have protested that he was sick to death of the hymn and of cold chicken. He was confronted with the one at every service he attended, and offered the other whenever he lunched with a clergyman.

In view of the prices which Gainsborough has been fetching, the gift of Gainsborough's "Portrait of Mrs. Graham as a Housemaid" by Rosalind Lady Carlisle, to the National Gallery, is especially valuable. It is not so long since that one of his works brought £20,000, and in private sales as much as £14,000 has been paid for examples of the great artist's work. Yet for carrying his pictures from Bath to London, Gainsborough painted a landscape and presented it to the public carrier.

The State Banquet at Buckingham Palace in honour of the wedding of the Duchess of Fife and Prince Arthur of Connaught is to be notable by reason of the fact that both Prince Arthur and Princess Mary are expected to be present for the first time. There will be a very large assembly of the members of the Royal family, and the invitation will be limited for the most part to the official and diplomatic circles and intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom. The only toast offered will be that of "The health of the young couple," proposed by the King.

DOM MANOEL'S WEDDING. BRILLIANT CEREMONY AT SIGMARINGEN.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES."]

SIGMARINGEN, Sept. 4th.
The wedding has passed off most successfully in fine, though occasionally overcast, weather. The town was aroused at 6 o'clock by a salute of guns.
At 7 o'clock Dom Manoel and the Princess Augustina attended Mass and communicated in the Chapel of the Castle. At 11 o'clock the execution of the marriage contract was performed by General Count Eulenburg, Grand Marshal of the Court and of the Household and Grand Master of the Ceremonies to the Emperor William, who had come from Berlin for the purpose.
A procession of the Royal personages walking two and two was then formed in the following order:—

THE BRIDAL PAIR.
H.R.H. the Prince of Hohenzollern (father of the bride) and Her Majesty Queen Amélie of Portugal (mother of the bridegroom).
H.R.H. Prince Augustus William of Prussia (representing H.I.M. the German Emperor) and H.R.H. The Grand Duchess of Baden.
H.R.H. the Prince of Wales (representing H.M. King George) and H.R.H. the Duchess of Aosta (aunt to the bridegroom).
H.R.H. the Duke of Genoa and H.R.H. the Infanta Luisa of Spain (aunt to the bridegroom).
H.R.H. the Infante Don Carlos of Spain (cousin to the bride) and H.R.H. Princess Charles of Hohenzol-lern (aunt by marriage to the bride).
H.R.H. Prince John George of Saxony (cousin to the bride) and H.S.H. Princess Frederick of Hohenzollern (great-aunt by marriage to the bride).
H.R.H. the Grand Duke of Baden and H.R.H. the Duchess of Vendôme and Alençon (cousin to the bride).
H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and
H.S.H. Princess Stephanie of Hohenzollern (first cousin to the bride).
H.R.H. the Duke of Montpensier (uncle to the bridegroom) and H.S.H. Princess Marie of Hohenzol-lern (first cousin to the bride).
H.R.H. the Duke of Oporto (uncle to the bridegroom) and H.S.H. Prince Charles of Hohenzollern
(uncle to the bride).
H.R.H. the Duke of Aosta (uncle by marriage to the bridegroom) and H.R.H. the Duc de Vendôme.
H.S.H. Prince Francis Joseph (brother of the bride) and H.S.H. the Hereditary Prince Frederick of Hohenzollern (brother of the bride) and
H.S.H. Prince Albert of Hohenzollern
(first cousin to the bride).
Conducted by Baron von Wangenheim, Marshal to the Court of the Prince of Hohenzollern, the procession passed through the remarkable sloping tunnel decked with trophies which leads to the Great Gate, and under an awning between ranks of flower-strewn children and bedecked veterans into the church where who had been privileged to receive invitations. The elderly Grand Duchess Dowager of Baden had also previously been escorted to her seat.
The bride, who was pale and walked with half-closed eyes, wore a dress of moiré silk draped, with a train of silver brocade and the same material, and a small diamond crown as head ornament, with decorations. His mother wore a dove-coloured costume. The Prince of Wales was in the uniform of a British naval lieutenant. All the ladies wore slightly decorated hats. Each pair in the procession was followed by the respective suites.

THE WEDDING CEREMONY.
At 11.30, preceded from the door by Benedictine monks carrying lighted candles, Dom Manoel and the Princess Augustina knelt at a faldstool before the Altar, remaining there while the exalted personages sat on either side of the choir.
The church, which held about 450 people, is in the Rococo style with a painted ceiling, the walls had only been repainted yesterday.
At the conclusion of Mendelssohn's
"Wedding March," the service proceeded.
The bride's response to Cardinal Netto's question was calm and clear. The rings were produced on a silver by an attendant, and the Cardinal was about to give the wrong one to the bride when Dom Manoel stopped him. After some beautiful unaccompanied singing by a mixed choir, his Grace the Prince Abbot, Dom Thomas Bossart, of the famous Abbey of Our Lady of the Hermits at Einsiedeln, delivered a very long address recalling the previous relationships between the Houses of Hohenzollern and Braganza, and giving the customary good wishes and a mystical description of Christian marriage. The full orchestra played and the choir sang while the Cardinal's vestments were changed; an elaborate High Mass followed, and finally the Pontifical benediction and a congregational hymn.

THE FIRST DUTY.
Returning amid another salute to the inner court of the Castle, Dom Manoel and Doña Augustina de Bragança listened to the songs and recitations of a number of girls in peasant costume. They then drove to visit the bride's grandmother, the Princess Dowager Leopold of Hohenzollern, who was herself an Infanta of Portugal, being the daughter of Doña Maria da Gloria.
After the wedding breakfast—at which the bride's father, in proposing her health, deplored the departure of his only daughter—and later in the afternoon, the Dowager Princess returned the visit at the Castle, after which the married pair left quietly by motor for Munich.

The Prince of Wales, who has made an excellent impression by his geniality and modesty, left at 5.30 for Balmoral by way of Paris.
Dom Manoel received innumerable telegrams from the crowned heads of Europe and from many Portuguese abroad, who also had given magnificent presents. It is worthy of record that one of the most prominent Republicans in Portugal telegraphed sending his warmest congratulations "to the man who has always been, as your Majesty has, an excellent patriot."
The whole affair has been a pleasing mixture of pomp and domesticity. The friendly relations between Doña Augustina and her people were most charming.
The children were especially prominent in the rejoicings, hoping that some day their friend may be Queen of Portugal.
The visitors are delighted with Sigmaringen. I shall ever retain an exquisite recollection of the music last night which, falling from the Castle terrace, upon the streets below had quite an unearthly effect.

At the wedding breakfast the Prince of Hohenzollern proposed the toast of the bridal pair. Addressing his daughter, Princess Augustina said:—
From to-day onwards you belong for all time to your husband. Be to him a true support, helpmate, and self-sacrificing companion in sorrow as in joy. Be to him his happiness and sunshine in darker as in brighter days. For the third time in a little more than 50 years the ancient and illustrious Houses of Portugal and Hohenzollern have been united. From these unions have sprung rich blessings, and so we may all wish with sincere heart to the bride and bridegroom God's richest blessings and protection.
Raising his glass, the Prince of Hohenzollern cried:—
Long life to the young couple their Majesties King Dom Manoel and Queen Augustina Victoria.—Reuter.

Remarkable New Cure for Grey or Faded Hair.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY BY THE INVENTOR OF HARLENE "HAIR-DRILL."

How to re-awaken the colouring function of Grey or White Hair.

Is there a common cause for all Hair Troubles?

Some people who have gone into the question only superficially may at once jump to the conclusion that there is one common cause for all forms of hair-trouble.

This is not so, however, as anyone may see who looks around and notes the large number of people who retain heads of hair to a quite advanced age that are quite good heads of hair with the one exception that the hair is grey or white.

There are many people with plenty of hair which has gone grey at the sides, around the ears or upon the temples.

Either less common, perhaps, are the cases where the hair has lost its colour in streaks, round, or otherwise irregular patches.

And all these different cases of colour-deserted hair can be cured by "Astol," this new discovery of Mr. Edwards—a trial of which one is now offering free of any charge or obligation to all the readers of this paper.

A Trial Treatment of this Wonderful Cure.

It does not matter one little bit how long you have been troubled with this Hair-Loss-of-Colour; it does not matter how many times you have tried to Renew its colour without avail—all you have to do is to write to Mr. Edwards and he will show you how to restore your Grey or White Hair.

Indeed, he will do more—much more.

To every lady or gentleman troubled with—

—Hair that has become grey all over.
—Hair that has turned grey at the sides.
—Hair that has grown grey over the temples.
—Hair that has become streaked with grey,
he will send, without making the slightest charge,

A complete Hair-Colour-Restoring Outfit with full instructions of the treatment which completely restores the natural colour to Grey or White Hair.

MARCHING POWERS OF WORLD'S ARMIES.

Interesting points on the marching powers of an army were touched on by Captain G. Harvey, R.A.M.C., in an address at the Medical Congress on the physiology of physical training in marching. The President of the section, Surgeon-General Sir A. W. May, Medical Director-General of the Navy, was in the chair.

Captain Harvey said the marching powers of an army were largely dependent on the thoroughness of the physical training it had undergone. This had not always been recognised, and was partly due to the fact that in pre-railway days troops got more training in marching than they do now. To a great extent the haphazard methods of training troops for war had given place to carefully thought-out principles based on scientific investigation. Dealing with the rise of temperature that occurs in a man on the march, Captain Harvey said that from numerous observations it had been found that the average rise of temperature during marching amounted to 2.2°F., thus raising the temperature to 100.6°F. Anything above that temperature was dangerous.

Medical officers on a march should train themselves to recognise by the look of a man when his temperature was approaching a dangerous line. The production of heat was influenced by many factors, principally the weight of the load carried. Every extra ounce of weight a man had to carry had an effect in raising the temperature. The manner in which the load was carried was also very important, for a badly-balanced load caused increased muscular exertion. Pain caused by sore feet and strained tendons also caused increased heat. Next came the evaporation and dissipation of heat. With regard to the former, the nature and extent of the clothing and the way in which it was worn were the most important points. When possible, also, troops should march with open ranks. As to water-drinking, Captain Harvey did not advocate frequent and indiscriminate drinking, but maintained that, particularly in hot climates, a plentiful supply of water was necessary to prevent heat and heat-stroke.

Colonel Jarvis, U.S.A., said that what had struck him was the contrast in the rates at which the various armies of the world marched. He criticised the pace at which the English troops marched, and remarked that he wondered how they kept up the pace as they did. The United States troops marched at approximately 120 steps per minute, which he thought, was the average walking pace of a man. A point not generally recognised in the training of infantry soldiers was the development of automatism. Colonel Jarvis did not advocate the drinking of much water when marching. A lemon, he said, gave more satisfactory results. As to resting intervals, he said soldiers in the U.S.A. had five to ten minutes' rest every three miles.

Colonel Jones, head of the Canadian Medical Service, took a very pessimistic view of the marching powers of the armies of the future, for with the increased facilities for conveyance, in a few years the people, he said, "would have no legs at all."

The president recalled the march to the relief of Khartoum, when he was himself the medical officer in charge of the naval party. The march was made for 250 miles, he said, over a waterless desert, and over bad surface. Their total daily allowance of water for drinking and washing was three tumblersful, and he found from personal experience that the quantity then given for consumption during the march, which was exactly one tumblerful, was a great deal better not touched at all. He also found that if he once began to drink he wanted to continue, so long as he refrained from drinking the desire for water passed off. Speaking of sore feet, the president said that if precautions were taken they could be avoided altogether. On the same march a large number fell out with sore feet. On the return march, which had to be made "light" they were ordered to throw away all their stores. Among these were a number of barrels of engine-oil, and he ordered them to be saved. He made the naval men pour the oil into their boots, and nightly, no matter how tired he was, he inspected every man's feet. Consequently not one of the naval detachment fell out with sore feet.

TALKING PHOTOGRAPHS.

INVENTION THAT PROMISES A REVOLUTION.

A promise is held out to us of an invention which will, if it does what its inventor claims for it, leave both the phonograph and the gramophone far behind.

Mr. T. H. Williams, an electrical engineer, claims to have invented an improved method of recording and transmitting sounds, which will enable individuals or audiences to hear reproductions of sermons, speeches, plays, etc., much better than under present methods. Mr. Williams has discarded the present principles upon which the gramophone and phonograph are founded. He has taken up the photography of sound, and is working upon the lines which this scientific discovery has suggested.

There are two ways in which Mr. Williams desires to make use of his invention should he be able to perfect it. The first, says the Chronicle, is in connection with cinematographic pictures, whereby the sounds which should properly accompany these pictures are simultaneously recorded on photographic films, which constitute the negative from which prints can be taken. This is to be done by an instrument to which Mr. Williams has given the name of the "photophone cinematograph." The prints are then passed through another instrument, which has received the name of the "electric pneumatic audiphone." This instrument reproduces the sounds which have been photographed as loudly and distinctly as the originals.

A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY.

IN the best regulated families the little ills of life will creep in. Some member of the family circle may occasionally suffer from Biliousness and Indigestion, and one or the other will from time to time exhibit the well-known symptoms of Constipation. From these little troubles more serious complaints arise, and should therefore not be neglected. The slight headache, bad breath, and a discoloured tongue are the index to a disordered stomach; and the necessity of keeping a safe, sure, and reliable remedy in the house is apparent. By following such a course the more expensive method of calling in a doctor will be found quite unnecessary. That Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are the very best Family Medicine is vouched for by thousands of grateful men and women who speak from personal experience.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are not simply a purgative medicine which forces the food out of the body, depriving the stomach of its nourishment and thus starving the system. They contain the essential properties that are temporarily lacking in the stomach through weakness, and complete the digestion and assimilation, and so restore the functions of the digestive organs by obtaining the maximum of nutriment from the food which sustains the body and assures good health.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are an efficient, reliable, and safe remedy placed on the market at a price within the reach of all. The Pills being sugar-coated, are pleasant to take, and retain their full medicinal properties. They are packed in amber-coloured bottles—not in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes—and are thus always fresh and clean, impervious to moisture, unaffected by climatic conditions, and do not deteriorate by keeping as all liquid medicines do.

They are a perfect Blood Purifier and a positive and permanent cure for Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation, Headaches, Sallow Complexion, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Piles, Pimples, Boils and Blisters, and for Female Ailments.

Speech is reproduced, says Mr. Williams, with remarkable clearness and perfection of enunciation, and music with such clearness and precision that the correct timbre of the instruments is faithfully rendered, with sufficient volume and quality to fill the largest hall.

THE "PHOTOGRAMPHONE." The next step, according to Mr. Williams, is the "Photogramphone." This instrument takes the place of the ordinary phonograph and gramophone, in so far that the needle and the solid records for reproducing sounds are done away with. Speech, music, etc., are reproduced entirely through the media of light, electricity, and compressed air. Sounds reproduced on this instrument are, says Mr. Williams, entirely free from the imperfections peculiar to the gramophone and phonograph, and are perfectly clear and distinct.

Mr. Williams claims that the instruments which he is bringing out are capable of many applications. For instance, the "Photogramphone," used in connection with the "Electro-pneumatic Audiphone," can be used for the transmission of news from a central news bureau, it being only necessary for subscribers to have the latter instrument fitted in their clubs, hotels, private houses, or offices as the case may be.

The news would be transmitted from the central bureau, and by pressing a button or turning a switch the instrument would be set in motion, and the news would be spoken to the subscribers without their having to hold a receiver to their ears. A subscriber could, according to Mr. Williams, switch on the news service whilst lying in bed or eating his breakfast.

It would also be practicable to transmit speeches, debates in Parliament, lectures, or sermons. As the photographic films would remain and could be reproduced indefinitely, these could be heard at any time the subscriber desired. Mr. Williams hopes to give a demonstration of the practical utility of his invention before the end of the year.

Because of the hope that the sauce will be mistaken for the original LEA & PERRINS—every detail of label and bottle being imitated as closely as the law permits.

A Celebrated Violinist

Nervous Fatigue, Languor

The power to excel, the confidence which ensures her brilliant successes, says the talented violinist, Miss Sybil Keymer, is entirely due to her abundance of vigorous nerve force created by Phosferine. How greatly the numerous distinctions and triumphant career of this accomplished musician are promoted by the brain energy and physical stamina developed by Phosferine, is evident from Miss Keymer's admission that the tonic "enabled me to do myself justice." This power to excel, this ability to make the best use of her skill, depends upon the marvellous control and steadiness of the muscle nerves Phosferine has given her, and to which she owes the entrancing tone and quality of her musical renditions. Naturally, this energising effect of Phosferine was accompanied by the disappearance of the headaches, listlessness, and fatigue, which were the bane of her public appearances, and it is this happy outcome which impels Miss Keymer to testify to the exceptional advantages to be derived from Phosferine.

Promptly Remedied.

Miss Sybil Keymer, "Riverside," Albany Rd., Leighton Buzzard, Eng., writes: "I think I should inform you that I have recently derived very great benefit from the use of Phosferine. In the course of my profession I have to travel a good deal in getting to my various concerts, and I find that since using Phosferine I am never troubled with the headaches and listlessness which follow a long railway journey, particularly during hot weather. This is of very great importance to me, as frequently only a very little time elapses between reaching my destination and the commencement of a concert, and it is such a relief to feel fresh and ready for playing in public undisturbed by the fatigues of long travelling. It is because I feel that Phosferine enables me to do myself justice as a violinist, preventing any of the untidiness of the muscle nerves, which is so harmful to tone and quality, that I confidently commend the tonic at every opportunity."—July 11, 1912.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES.

THE WATCH-GARTER.

Not since the Directoire gown took the world by storm has there been such a season as the present for startling novelties in dress. The very latest is the watch-garter, shown at one of our West-end theatres last week. Will the fashion become general? The garter in question is worn immediately below the right knee, and the gown is so arranged as to leave it and the rest of the limb distinctly visible. This is not so startling as it would have been even a month ago. Slit-up skirts have accustomed us to revelations that would once have been regarded as, to say the least of it, highly indiscreet, one might even say, indecorous. In fact, some people do say it. Hostlers and shoemakers benefit by the sudden publicity given to the lower limbs. Smart shoes and stockings are in demand, and are more often bought than in the days when they occupied a modest seclusion. These tradespeople may disapprove, but their exchequer benefits. "The jingling of the guinea helps the hurt decorum feel." Apology to Tennyson!

AN UNSEASONABLE FASHION.

The rage for black velvet coats and toques during the heat-wave was one of those instances when Fashion runs dead against common-sense out of the love of mere novelty. It followed on the craze for furs as trimmings, and accompanied by light summer gowns. But the velvet toque also succeeded the general wear of black tulle hats with transparent crowns, through which every curl and twist of the coiffure could be seen. Such a sudden change from thin to thick is utterly irrational, but when did Mme. La Mode consult reason? She is too whimsical, too fantastic, too frivolous. These are the qualities by which her ministrants live. Worse than the velvet hat is the velvet coat when the mercury is up among the upper seventies in the thermometer. Most of these garments are sleeveless, which is a point in their favour. The basques, too, are very short. Others, of the dolman style, have sleeves of no great length nor consequence. One fears that this crippling kind of garment may be coming in for autumn and winter wear. It is easy to say "Why wear it if you dislike it?" There are reasons. What is fashionable is always procurable at a fairly moderate price. No one wishes to look singular, or even old-fashioned, as would be the case if we went on wearing articles of dress that are out of date. Consideration for our friends and acquaintances forbids it.

THE SMART SUNSHADE.

Regarded as background for a pretty face and head, to say nothing of a charming hat, the up-to-date sunshade is quite excellent. One of these in broadened silk, the design large coloured flowers, the foundation-colour russet, has only to be tilted backwards to frame in the head with much distinction and effect. The russet or tan colour glows in the sun and makes a vivid radiance about the face and head. The colour should not be too bright. Otherwise it extinguishes the complexion, the soft pinks and creams of the typical English girl. Pale pink is admissible, but scarlet, orange, tomato and tangerine red are too vivid.

OF WATERPROOFS.

September showers, especially after a continued drought, are apt to be in earnest. The rain comes down with a will, as the unwaterproofed wayfarers discover to their cost. The United States have added, it appears, to the great number of their inventions, a waterproof coat of so light a texture that it can be folded up and carried in an envelope when not in use. The cost of one of these is fivepence. The question is how long would one of them last in a heavy downpour? It would not be very expensive to buy several, and have one for every shower during a month, say. It is certain that extreme lightness would be one of its characteristics. Lightness of texture, and not weighing heavily on the exchequer.

TRANSPARENT SKIRTS.

It has caught on in a modified fashion. Few of even the most "advanced" dressers wear the thin skirt in very fragile materials, but in Broderie Anglaise it is seen. The effect is not so startling, though the limbs can be vaguely seen through the large holes in which the putters are worked. In a costume of this kind the broderie is white, while the shoes and stockings are black. The very narrow skirt is in the corselet shape. The bodice and tunic, cut in one, are in white chiffon, the upper part very much cut away on chest and shoulders. The tunic is arranged in folds below the waist in front, to give the effect of fullness now considered smart.

THE PANTHER GOWN.

In the Royal Academy of this year was a picture of a lady wearing a gown so suggestive of a panther that the canvas soon became known by that name. As so often happens, the suggestion is followed by the reality. The new panther gown is carried out in broché of tawny tints such as, dull grey and equally dull brown and dim gold. Falling over it from the waist, and in continuation of the bodice, is a long tunic of dull brown nixon made very full and lightly wired round the hem. Through it the curious "spot" design of the brocade can be seen. The bodice is made with the new sleeve, a perversion of the kimono, carried from the top of the shoulder and from the waist to the elbow. At the back of the skirt is a short train, narrowing to a point and suggestive of the panther's tail.

CARE OF THE COMPLEXION.

With the violent colours now worn, the complexion has to be carefully toned to suit the juxtaposition. Otherwise, the effect would be destructive of charm. So thinks, apparently, a Parisian grande dame, who daily applies a lotion-made after the following recipe:—Take a pint of champagne, and stir into it a pint of pure honey, adding four tablespoonfuls of strawberry juice after it has been strained through fine muslin. On the other hand, a Paris doctor denounces bridge as the greatest enemy of health and consequently complexion. "Four hours at a stretch," he scolds, "seated round a table in an overheated room badly ventilated—that is the way to acquire heavy features, round shoulders, and lung mischief." This doctor advises the tango as a substitute for cards and "sport" in the open air whenever possible. Wise man! But will the fervent bridge-players pay any attention? Apropos of complexion, it is said that the furs of the season are to be in strong, coarse tones of yellow and orange, in such tints, in fact, as would suit only the colouring of negroes. Ordinary skins are, it appears, to be toned up to suit them.

NEW HEADGEAR.

The revival of the turban-touque may be regarded as a novelty, especially as the quieter colours in which it was seen before are now replaced by vivid shades of green, blue, cranberry red, cardinal, reddish purple, and tomato. On some of these turbans, two brightly contrasting colours are to be seen, one in the velvet itself, the other in the indispensable feather. Tulle is used for many of the turbans, but the chief favourites are rich brocaded gauzes, striped Algerian materials, Turkish and Persian embroideries, and Liberty fabrics in Oriental colours. Gold and silver cloth are also used, or gold net with rich embroidery.

OF BLOUSES.

Crêpe-de-chine is the favourite material for blouses, and the fashionable shape has a bolero, either real or simulated. Diamanté or sequined tulle is used for trimmings, even for day wear. Truth to tell, nothing seems out of place for day wear. Perhaps we shall soon see diamond tiaras as hat-trimmings. To return to blouses, one in white silk muslin has a bolero in the softest, whitest, lightest crêpe-de-chine set into a kind of yoke in Brocade lace, finished round the upper part with a velvet collar in the peculiar grey known as "tête-de-nègre." This collar stands out from the shoulders after the Medici style. The bolero is hemmed round with a closely tucked band of its own material, and is held together in front with straps of velvet like the collar.

THE BELT.

The next extravagance promises to be in connection with the belt, which is worn round the hips, and gets lower and lower every day. When this kind of thing begins, it is difficult to guess where it will end.—X. AND Z. in the Globe.

LET YOUR'S BE THE NEXT CURE BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS IF YOUR KIDNEYS TROUBLE YOU.

HERE IS FRESH PROOF THAT THEY ARE THE REMEDY.

Thousands of men and women who have ceased to ache, thousands of weak, weary, ailing men and women—the owners of these backs—have been made sturdy, lithesome, and well, as a result of a short course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These Pills do it through the blood—the rich strong blood they supply at every dose cleanses and invigorates the kidneys, energises the nerves, carries new health to every fibre of the body. Mr. Thomas Frederick Smith, a teacher at Trinity College, Kandy, Ceylon, is one of the people referred to above who have proved this. He says:—

"For several years I was a constant sufferer from kidney trouble. Doctors said that my kidneys might get healthy as time went on, but they also warned me that there was a possibility of the trouble becoming more severe. And it did become worse. My spine seemed to become affected; dreadful back pains tortured me; the pains that shot through my back when I got up from a chair were so awful as to bring tears into my eyes."

"Besides, I became so exceedingly nervous that the fall of anything on to the floor or the unexpected opening of a door caused me to start, followed by poundings of my heart which almost stifled me."

"The general state of my health at this time was at its worst; my appetite had left me entirely, my sleep was disturbed by dreadful dreams, and my spine had become so sore and tender that if I happened to lie on my back at night I suffered intense agony. It looked as though I was in for many years of suffering."

"Then in one of our local papers I read details of how a Ceylon resident had been cured of Kidney Disorder by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was greatly interested, and made up my mind to see if these Pills would alleviate my sufferings also. After taking them for a week I felt that they were doing me good; my appetite was better and the pains were not so frequent in my back. Gradually the tenderness of my spine diminished, I got better sleep and rest at night. Within three weeks my back pains had quite vanished."

"At the present time I am in excellent health, and kidney trouble has never worried me since my cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If I had taken these Pills when the first symptoms of backache appeared I should have been saved at least eighteen months' suffering."

For all ailments due to blood poverty or debilitated nerves, such as Anæmia, Debility, Indigestion, Malaria, Rheumatism and women's troubles, Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people are a proved remedy. They are obtainable everywhere, and from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 84, Seeshuan Road, Shanghai, one bottle for $1.50, six for $8 post free.
